

Jamal Lewis - Illinois, US
20 year old Student

Brief summary

---

Computer science undergrad at University of Illinois.

Jamals excitement for programming started with watching Michael Reeves on YouTube.

His primary interests are AI and robots. In his free time he's made a couple small projects with a Raspberry Pi.

He was also in the rowing team in high-school and hopes to make the university rowing team this year.

Jamal was in a 2 year relationship but the long-distance proved to be too much and they broke it off shortly after he moved away from Charlottesville to Illinois.

He's also on Tinder but thinks of it more as a game than a venue for meeting

Main goals

---

Looking to connect with other computer-science students and programmers in his area and if he could get a girlfriend out that it'd be great!

Pain points

---

- Poor hygiene.
- Being stubborn and not owning up to your mistakes.

Features

---

- Sort users based on distance.
- Being able to view users github repositories.