

Örjan Petterson - Stockholm, SE
41 year old IT Project Manager

Brief summary

Currently a project manager at Spotify. Worked as a developer for 14 years, 8 of them at Spotify.

Örjan is very driven and always curious about new techniques but experience tells him the word new and future legacy code are often one and the same. Just as new design trends often fade and things like clean and intuitive UI/UX will never go away.

Outside of obsessing over projects or studying it-related things he has a large Warhammer miniatures collection which he paints and plays battle scenarios with together with friends.

His previous relationship lasted for 3 years. They got along well but the lack of mutual interests and his busy schedule saw them spend less and less time together. According to himself they both agreed on just being friends instead.

Main goals

Örjan is a Tinder user aswell but hasn't yet found a match from the dates he's been on. He's hoping to find someone that he gets along well with and who shares his passion for coding.

Pain points

People that keep their feeling in and are unwilling to discuss issues.

Features

Would like to be able to sort users based on years as a developer and preferred programming languages.