Matthew Johnson - New York, US
29 year old Data Engineer

Brief summary

Matthew has worked as an engineer for several years and has had a couple of relationships before which ended either because of lack of interest or because the girlfriend didn't feel he was engaged in the relationship enough. Matthew now wants to give another shot at love and hopes to find a developer because he believes that she will understand and respect his busy work schedule. His hobbies are playing COD Warzone and occasionally playing darts with his friends.

Main goals

• Find a serious relationship
• Find someone who likes to play video games, bonus points if she can develop games

Pain points

• Thinks he knows the type of girl he wants, but actually doesn't
• Gets overwhelmed by the amount of matches he gets
• Date failures - going on a date with a so called catfish

Features

• Wants to avoid unnecessary clicks
• Matches should be based on location - LDR are hard to upkeep